[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

A Bank Robber Confesses.

LOUISVILLE, Ky Sept. 2.—Louis Rehl teller of the Planters National Bank, has confessed to having robbed the safe himself His first statement was that he had been awakened when asleep with his wife at night by some one tickling his feet. By the light he saw two masked men in the room one at the foot and the other at the head of the bed each presenting a pistol at his head He was made to rise, put on his pantaloons then go down stairs and was compelled to leave with them when a short distance they demanded the keys, and while one held him the other inflicted a slight wound in his abdomen, but failed to get the keys They then forced him to the Planters National Bank and after obtaining the keys and inflicting two more slight cuts, one on the head and the other on the leg, they robbed the safe of contents one hundred and ... thousand dollars, they then put him in the ... and locked the doors, he first fainted but re... covered and got the doors open and staggered out going to the police station. He was unable to speak on arrival at the station, but wrote on a slate that the bank had been robbed. Detective Blight was notified and took charge of Rehl, whom he knew very well as a steady and honest young man The preceding story was related to Blight who regarded it as very weak, and had Rehl locked up at the hotel. Directors of the bank met and after examination came to the conclusion that Rhel's story was framed, and he was the robber The president informed him but Rehl asserted his innocence, Being told that all regarded him as the robber, he asked for an hour's sleep, and on awakening confessed he had robbed the safe before 12 o'clock the night preceding carrying its contents home and burying them under the house Examination by the detective resulted in finding all the money tied up in a small spot in the rear of Rhel's residence. He was arrested and is now in jail Previous to the robbery Rhel was regarded as honest as any one in the bank Why he took the money is a matter considered unaccountable as he must have well known no one would believe the story He says he don't know why he took it and now he realizes the improbability of being taken from his bed as related.

Held to Answer.

Charlie Ross Still Alive.

A reporter interviewing widow Mosher who abducted Charlie Ross drew statements from her which indicate her knowledge that the boy is well and where he can be procured. After trying to evade every inquiry, declaring she never saw the boy she replied to a direct question whether he is living "I don't know I am sure he is living and will turn up before long I am as sure he is living as that I breathe. I would not believe him dead unless I saw his body before me.' It is surmised the boy may be found after the trial of Westerfield for complicity in the abduction is ended

Turns its Face in the Right Direction.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Mr Jewett receiver of the board of directors of the Erie railroad has had a conference with the English commissioner appointed to inspect and report upon the condition of the road, and agreed that the advice of foreign stockholders should be considered in the management Edward Watkins said the way was clear to speedy and thorough reorganization of the road without serious damage to property and interests As soon as reorganization was effected they should strive for commercial and active management. Although English interests had power to command the new Erie will give its attention to internal development and waive all ambiguous schemes which have proved so disastrous in the past and would be satisfied in effectually controlling what was strictly its own property and leave railroad wars to be waged by others.

Virginians Wish to Consult with Northern Men on an Important Matter.

A party of twenty five gentlemen from Virginia headed by Gen Fitzhugh Lee arrived here to attend a conference with leading Northern residents as to the best means of renovating interest in that part of Virginia which was the chief theater of military operations during the civil war and has ever since suffered owing to want of immigration

Trial of Corday Harris.

The Tribune has a special from Ganderville Ga yesterday It says the trial of Corday Harris the colored man accused of attempting to create an insurrection among the negroes of the county closed yesterday with a verdict of not guilty The acquittal was simply the result of a failure of the prosecution to produce evidence of criminal intent in any of the acts with which the prisoner was charged.

Another Political Riot

CHICAGO Sept. 3.—A special from Vicksburg says a riot occurred last night in a Republican club meeting at Yazoo City growing out of a dispute about honest officials between the Republican Sheriff Morgan, and Democratic negroes Some 50 shots were fired and Deputy Sheriff Mitchel was killed and one negro badly wounded The town has been in intense excitement all day Business is suspended and armed men picketing the road to guard against invasion by negroes

Prospect of Some Further Disclosures

CHICAGO Sept 3.—A Washington special says a rumor has prevailed for the last few hours that Burton the safe burglar whose release on bail was procured by Dick Harrington in order that he might be used as a witness in the case of the burglary had been arrested in New York and brought to this city and kept in secret confinement. The best information obtainable goes to confirm the rumor It is believed Burton is here a prisoner not altogether against his will. He is said to have given away the story of the safe burglary to several in New York within the last two months and it is understood the matter is in such a shape that the whole truth will be brought out It is alleged that in thus giving the thing away Burton has stated positively that the party with whom he negotiated was neither Harrington nor any other of the ... holding position but one who has not hitherto been suspected by the public a man who was in close intimacy at the White House.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

The Sick Man not so very Sick.

LONDON Sept. 2.—A Vienna dispatch to the News says it is asserted that representatives of Austria at Belgrade notified Servia that willful aggression on her part against Turkey may make it necessary for Austria to send troops to Servia to preserve neutrality It is expected that Servia will issue a circular showing her action necessary to protect her territory against Turkey by force of arms An article in the semi official journal of Constantinople resents foreign interference and declares Turkey fully equal to cope with rebellion and will not cede an inch of territory in deference to demonstrations

LONDON Sept 3.—The Moscow Gazette says the mission of the mediating consuls at Ragusa is likely to fail the consuls not being entitled to guarantee Turkey concessions to the demands of the insurgents on the one hand and on the other hand the insurgents are destitute of a common chief who could pledge himself for the ratification of any agreement.

The Times dispatch from Berlin states that the Porte has declared in reply to cautions of the powers that he is willing to refrain from offensive measures against Servia, provided the Servian government does not directly or indirectly assist the insurgents.

Correspondence of ... genuine ... writers from Belgrade state that Prince Milan is not likely to prevent the Servians from helping the insurgents

Chinese News

A special from London says A body of returned soldiers from Formosa soon after landing at Foochow assaulted an American lady and gentleman with great violence severely bruising both An investigation is being made by the U S consul.

The Chinese government is preparing to send diplomatic representatives to the leading western nations. According to report they will be preceded by a roving mission similar to Burlingame's under Hart inspector of customs

The British commissioners started for Guanan to investigate the murder of Margary accompanied by the viceroy Lihan Chang and by Chem Chi nese magistrate of the mixed court of Shanghai

Forty thousand taels ... were paid the French legation for the murder of a French priest in Szechuen six months ago

Much attention is attracted by the refusal of Lihung Chang Viceroy of China, to allow Elmire the Peruvian charge to proceed to Pekin for the ratification of a treaty The viceroy demands guarantees for the good treatment of Chinese in Peru which Elmire is not prepared to give declaring them unnecessary The viceroy announces Elmire shall not leave Tient until such pledge is given It is commonly understood that this resistance is in consequence of Russia's arbitration against Peru in favor of Japan on the coolie question.

England will Annex Burmah

Evidence daily grows stronger that England is determined to make the Margary murder a pretext for seizing and annexing Burmah Large bodies of British Indian troops are concentrating on the frontier

Affairs of the Bank of California.

The affairs of the Bank of California are progressing favorably In an interview with a prominent gentleman of the directory this afternoon assurances were given that the best prospects existed of its speedy reopening. Guarantees of capital to the amount of several millions are already subscribed and more is promised Creditors exhibit a disposition to grant a reasonable extension on their demands and stockholders without exception so far as seen express their willingness to enter into the proposed arrangements A further examination into the state of its assets warrants the assertion that their condition is better than at first supposed The directors at present prefer to make public no detailed statement as to the assets and liabilities though information was privately afforded to assist in obtaining a general knowledge of the condition of the bank which goes far to confirm the recent favorable reports No definite time was stated for resumption but a delay of about two weeks was intimated at which time a full statement of affairs will be made public

The Stock Exchange.

The San Francisco Stock Exchange held a meeting to day $250 000 was subscribed to guarantee the fund of the bank and subscriptions were made by individual members amounting in the aggregate to from $250 000 to $400 000 The board will not probably resume sessions until the bank begins payment, and in the meantime discourage any business on street Private transactions were made however to day at the following figures Con Va 210 Cala 52 Ophir 43 C Point 26 B & B 40 G & C 16 Yellow Jacket 55 Belcher 21 Mex can 17 The best of feeling prevails among brokers

The Seattle Homestead Association filed their articles of incorporation in the auditor's office last week Their place of business is Seattle, and capital stock $25 000 divided into 25 shares Object—the purchase and sale of real estate in King county

The Seattle Tribune says "The crew of the cutter Oliver Wolcott since she left here last week have cremated at San Juan Island two Indian bodies, the victims of smallpox The remains were coated with coal oil and set fire to The job as may be imagined, was a very unpleasant one

The Vancouver Register learns the particulars of a sort of Beecher Tilton affair which will come up at the next term of the district court It dates back a number of years and will implicate several influential citizens besides furnishing another instance wherein man's confidence in man was betrayed by a so called friend Damages to the amount of $10 000 are claimed by the plaintiff

In speaking of Whatcom county the Bellingham B[ay] Mail says It is the largest in area, as would generally conceded to be the most productive of any of the twenty or more counties of western Washington It is capable of producing and does produce more grain than any dozen of them From the southern part alone (the vicinity of LaConner) will be exported three ships cargoes of this years' cereals and only a small fraction of the flats is yet under cultivation Two of the largest navigable rivers the (Skagit and Nootsack) in the Territory course through this county and it is westerly bordered by a hundred miles of sea coast which contains many bays, harbors and inlets, for the accommodation of commerce

FARMING ITEMS

The Farmers' warehouse at Albany has already received nearly 45,000 bushels of wheat

Mr Moore, who lives on a newly cleared place just across the Calapooia from Albany has this year produced 2,500 bushels of wheat from 50 acres of land

Messrs Stacy Montgomery and Crane, of Tualatin plains have just threshed their fields of wheat, which yielded respectively 21, 23 and 25 bushels per acre. A good average

The Gazette says the grain yield of Benton county will be as large and probably larger, than last year although the average per acre will be less Increase of acreage sown makes up the deficiency

The grangers in the vicinity of Glencoe Washington county are in the midst of harvest Crops do not yield as well as was expected particularly oats which will not average over 25 bushels to the acre

The McMinnville Reporter says The highways are filled with almost an unbroken line of teams loaded with grain for the different storehouses The late cool and damp weather has been utilized to a good advantage in this manner if it did stop harvest operations for a few days

Mr C W James Secretary of Wingville Grange and Mr H D Cassidy, Secretary of North Powder Grange Patrons of Husbandry in Baker county officially informs the Herald that the following rates for grain have been agreed upon Baker City and Wingville grangers holding wheat at $1 per bushel oats and barley 2 cent per pound North Powder grangers holding wheat at 1½ cent per pound oats and barley 1½ cents per pound

From the Yamhill Reporter It is generally admitted by farmers that the present rain is proving a severe drawback on the spring grain yet standing and that a few days more of such will destroy the crop altogether But very few have gathered their spring grain in fact the most of our farmers have just made a commencement thereon and many fields are as yet untouched About North Yamhill there was considerable spring grain but the harvest is pretty well advanced while on the South Yamhill harvesting has only well begun From every direction we learn that grain is lodged badly It looks rather gloomy We can only hope for the best however We may as well know the truth of the matter and meet it manfully and considerately

STEWART, THE TRADESMAN

A T Stewart who has such large interests in Saratoga is bound to make all he can there and has just opened a dry goods store A letter to the Troy Times tells this story

For instance—and I guarantee the truth of what I say—a lady in looking over parasols in the establishment recently was satisfied with only one and that had already been sold She expressed regret and started for the door saying she did not care for any other style of sunshade As she left even before her back was turned, Mr Stewart quickly signalled for the clerk who had been waiting on her The young man sprung to obey that magnetic fore finger

"What did she want?

"A parasol sir'

"And couldn't you suit her?'

"No sir She wanted one that Mrs ... had already ordered—the only one of the kind in the store

"Call her back quickly '

The clerk hastened to the door for the conversation had lasted but three seconds and requested the lady to wait a moment A T himself came forward with short nervous steps and said If you will call to morrow morning we will give you the parasol you ask for without fail ' The same morning a telegram ordered a supply from New York, and before the store opened in the morning the lady's order was filled This is the kind of a man that A T Stewart is and this is the secret of his success and of his fortune Opinions are not alike as to his course in opening a store in this village Local merchants almost depend upon summer trade for their livelihood and it is a hard blow to them to have to compete with Stewart's stock and prices They can't do it and unhesitatingly condemn his course in huckstering here as small and contemptible the same which I am free to say I think it is

Presently ... a frowsy Irishwoman got on with a big market basket When the conductor came through she gave him five cents and he said "Fare's six cents" "I'll not give it to yees she said ye've no right to ask me more nor they do on the other cars Six cents or I'll put you off said the conductor quietly Put me off thin I'll not pay six cints Just at that moment another passenger handed him a fare and he took up the new fangled thing conductors carry now to mark the fare, and she had evidently never seen one O bedad, she shrieked "don't shute, I'll give yees the other cint' and then her look of fright changed to one of astonishment at the roar of laughter that followed, but she paid the other cent '—American Grocer

The Benton Democrat says Gilbert Gaylord in company with a number of young men from Corvallis arrived at Newport on Tuesday, and on Wednesday they started out for a ramble on the beach he carrying a needle gun While passing around a point of rocks on the beach Mr Gaylord passed his gun to his brother who was in advance of him and then commenced to clamber over the rocks By some mischance—how we have not learned—the rifle was discharged the ball striking Mr Gaylord in the upper portion of the right breast ranging up and back, and passing out under and back of the right arm The wound is a very serious one and came near proving fatal but we are glad to learn that Mr Gaylord is now past all danger, and will soon be able to be brought home

The Baker City Herald of last Saturday says "Last Tuesday evening about 4 o'clock, Mr Thomas Cosgrove was caved in upon while at work in the main shaft of the James Gordon mine and was carried down with the debris perpendicularly about 75 feet then down an incline of 40 feet His fellow workman, after the accident went down and attempted to rescue him and found him buried beneath heavy timbers, rock and dirt He managed to uncover his head and to his surprise and delight found that life was not extinct Being unable to rescue him alone and the dirt continuing to fall at intervals from above he reascended and came to town for assistance The party from town were inexperienced in underground work and could do very little towards rescuing the man A couple of men started down, but were driven back by the threatening aspect of falling stones and dirt All this time the voice of Cosgrove could be heard though not able to tell what he said By this time some experienced miners had arrived from the Virtue mine and a couple of brave men descended with stout hearts They found that great danger threatened them as they could now and then hear the ominous thud of falling debris from above They fixed some timbers and plank so as to protect him as much as possible from the weight of dirt and reascended They were none too soon for no sooner had they gained the top than a terrible rumbling and crashing was heard within shaking the ground for a distance around All hope was gone Nevertheless something must be done Teams were dispatched from town with lumber and tools for timbering the caving portion of the shaft With stout hearts and willing hands the timbers were placed in and made secure After anxiously working till about 7 o'clock Friday morning Mr Cosgrove was rescued and brought to the surface having been imprisoned in the very jaws of death for 15 hours To the astonishment of every one only one rib was broken and though badly bruised and cut about the body and lower limbs his head and vitals are said to be uninjured

GRAMMAR AND CLEAN CORNERS.—A female servant in the family of a gentleman in the Department of the Interior Washington is allowed to make a yearly visit to her old home in Richmond, Virginia Last summer when she left, a substitute was employed, a mulatto girl, who had been quite well educated She performed the duties in a rather indifferent manner When the regular servant returned she began her tour of investigation to ascertain how her work had been done and was disgusted at the evident want of neatness manifested everywhere Her indignation finally found vent in the following to her mistress "I'll tell you what it is Miss ... you can't get grammar and clean corners out of the same nigger ' Which, if true, offers a knotty problem in reference to the education of the race —Harper's Magazine for September

STATE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Afternoon Session.

SALEM Sept 2 1875

The Institute was called to order by President Gault, and, after music Mr Bishop, of Brownsville introduced the subject of Constitutional Government Mr Bishop's remarks were very forcible and at times humorous In deploring the lack of knowledge among teachers concerning our nation he related the case of one teacher stating that the Fourth of July was celebrated for the proclamation of President Lincoln announcing freedom to the slaves

Governor I F Grover being called on, made some excellent remarks on the subject. It being now open for discussion Mr Freeman of Portland made a few remarks

The argument being closed, the next subject —"Resolved That moral education be taught in schools and not incidentally introduced"—was opened by Mr Smith in the affirmative According to this speaker mental and physical progress went hand in hand, but he did not see where moral progress came in He was followed by Mr Porter, in the negative who sustained his side of the question very ably Mr Foster, "a stranger in a strange land" thought that not only moral but also religious instruction should be given in our schools Mr Gilbert thought that any competition about morality was a 'curse to any age,' and that establishing schools without moral instructions was as if master builders should send out a ship without a rudder, also that mothers and school teachers sow nearly all the seeds of good or evil that spring up in the world He left it to the Institute to determine whether he was in the affirmative or negative.

Prof Johnson, of Portland followed on "Irregular Verbs" treating his subject in a clear and able manner Professor Gault made a few suggestions Dr Hogen gave some amusing instances of the wrong use of verbs A chorusing vocal solo, rendered by Mrs England came next

Here Miss Ellen Luelling read a good essay, which was much applauded and that the OREGONIAN readers may know that the applause was just your reporter has procured a copy which is in these words

Fellow Teachers It is in the golden glitter and dewy freshness of youth that the work of life seems to us as mere play And how our hearts long for the time when our hands may help to bear onward the palm of victory when our glad voices may swell the peans of joy Ah the many air castles that are builded in the first flush of ardent success How bright how fair and pure our hopes loom up before our mental vision grand and distinct we fancy, from all others But we are doomed to disappointment, as one by one our dreams are shattered by the hard hand of reality, and we awake to the fact that here and there our plans are only fac similes of others that have been planned over and over by many a youthful mind before us So the great mass of humanity goes creeping along the same beaten track that has been worn down, down by preceding generations. And the life work of hundreds of thousands of toiling, laboring mortals is never lifted above the same dull channels—never grows higher than the walls of their earth born desires We see stern browed men growing old in the weariness of life's work, and wonder if there ever was a time when they looked with lenient eyes on the petty faults and foibles of youth, which they now condemn so bitterly We watch the lives of pale faced women and question if they ever dreamed such cloud reaching dreams—reveled in such high, bright aspirations—or made such stern resolves to win fame even at the sacrifice of what, we in our ardor may esteem weak sentimental folly. Perhaps they dreaded the sneers of the world, and so gave up their hopes Or they may have read the lines describing the old age of a late gifted poetess who had wrought her life's work alone and when she had reached 'Olympus' highest hight,' was

A woman old with her journey alone
A woman old with the weight of years,
Sits by her lonely hearth while afar
The murmured praise of nations she hears
But she turns from all in scornful ruth
And only thinks of her broken youth

But the young never stop long, to think of the prizes they covet, turning to ashes in their grasp and too often their selfishness or their ambition leads them on over the grave of their happiness We cannot realize these facts, however while youth sits lightly on our brows and life has a thousand charms for the young

We only wonder if time will change us so If the life work lying in the unknown future, will drag us down to the prosaic level of the older lives around us. Careless, thoughtless, we wonder then forget that it must be so The life work of only a few raises them into the clouds on the wings of their fancy Let these be called dreamers or cloud gatherers as they may their work is not to be sneered at Though their thoughts may not be in regard to the goods that render life comfortable, yet the rays of upper sunbeams that they fling down to us are at least pure and innocent and the world has need of all purity and innocence wherewith to leaven the distrust and selfishness the vice and wretchedness that darken mortal eyes and blind them to the higher light of virtue that cling to mortal minds and weigh them down from rising to purer air and freer light The tiniest fern that dips its graceful spray in the clear waters of the streamlet has performed its life's work with unconscious grace It has pleased the eye and delighted the gazer with a sense of beauty The delicate tinted flower, the waving shrub, the gay winged bird flitting among the waving foliage, delighting us with the sweet intoxication of its song have each successfully filled their niche in nature's temple

But to us has been given something more than instinct or insensate power of growing Though all are not possessed of talents which by the most assiduous cultivation even will lead them to honor or fame yet patience and perseverance are homely virtues which will work wonders One need not hurl himself to death in the din of battle to win the name of hero Life's work is not concentrated into one mighty effort. It is not the work of an hour but of life Let there be taken from the annals of our nation a slight sketch of a life that was in itself an example of perseverance It is the history of an obscure man who by his indomitable energy left a more glorious heritage to his country than many a brilliant genius who lacked the will to do Though his name has not blazed a meteor among those of our glorious heroes yet no veteran of a hundred battles ever more nobly earned the name It is the sad triumphant history it is the name of Charles Goodyear It is not alone that his invention is of incalculable benefit to his country It is not alone that an American should have the honor of inventing that method of utilizing India rubber after which both continents had been eagerly seeking for years It is as well the example to Americans American youths of a great nature striving against poverty reproach and calumny for a ... by all his friends yet fighting the battle to the bitter end From the time when Chas Goodyear realized that here was one of nature's secrets to which no mortal held the key he applied all his energies to the task of grasping the mystery and elucidating its meaning Through half a score of years in the very prime of his life years of the deepest poverty of the most stinging ridicule, while his acquaintances regarded him as hopelessly insane on the subject of his invention he kept his mind fixed on the success which he knew the future held for him and to all reproaches he replied "There is a way, there must be a way and I will find it Failure after failure dragged themselves like slimy serpents of despair along his dark path Disappointments which would have crazed a weaker man, and sent one less sure of success into a suicide's grave, seemed only to strengthen his resolve Death entered his home and he was even dependent on charity to consign his child to its last resting place Like the Norseman catching glimpses of the weird and fabulous moonstone pursuing it over fierce northern seas unable to relinquish the pursuit until he drifts on in his lonely bark a corpse with a look of despairing determination on his frozen face is doomed to forever wander in the hopeless search, so this man seemed to follow the secret that so persistently eluded him, and only when fate had heaped her bitterest taunts upon him had crushed him beneath her relentless hand he succeeded, ah, that was the saddest mockery of all

For in the moment when honor and fame were in his reach when the success of the problem into which he had worked his life, was complete—he died None can say his life was wasted His success lives to-day in a thousand forms of use and beauty,—in the perfection of a great art, in the history of his country His heroism—ah! it is a brave man who dares to fight his way alone against all the world It is only a coward who shrinks from life's work, and it is a true man or woman, who will make the building up of a strong earnest mind rich with wisdom brave with integrity, what it should be, their life's work

At the conclusion of Miss Luelling's essay, "Writing" was introduced by Prof Cook, after which Prof King, of Portland, gave some interesting ideas on the subject. Miss Clara Watt gave her method of teaching beginners the principles of writing. Dr Atkinson and Mr Barker each made a few remarks, after which the Institute took a recess until 7 30 P M

Evening Session.

Music of course, is first on the programme—a piano solo by Misses Hernandez and Smith Prof A J Anderson, of Portland, was then introduced to the audience, and gave an interesting account of his visit to the schools of San Francisco Prof. Anderson's remarks were comprehensive and instructive in the highest degree.

After more music, Mrs N E Morse read a poem entitled "I Shall Miss the Children," full of sweet and tender sentiment.

"The Working Forces of the School" was the subject chosen by Prof. Condon for his discourse and was eloquently treated by that well known lecturer, in his inimitable style. Combined with Prof Anderson's remarks the lecture rendered the evening a most enjoyable one Morning Session.

SALEM, Sept. 3 1875

The institute was called to order at 9 o'clock A M Session opened with prayer by Rev G. H Atkinson.

Critics appointed for the day Mr Bilyen and Miss Boise.

Music was called for, but as the musicians were absent that exercise was dispensed with.

Reading of the minutes of the previous day followed by Prof L J Powell, during which the hall rapidly filled with teachers, whose faces exhibited the interest they felt in the proceedings which they witnessed With one or two corrections the minutes were approved.

The lady musician, Miss Maria D'Arcy, being now present, she executed a piano solo in a charming manner

Under the head of general business, the resolution introduced by Prof Powell on the previous evening, was brought up

Dr Rowland and Prof King made some statements in regard to half fare tickets The thanks of all teachers are due to both these gentlemen for the interest manifested by them for the convenience of all attending the Institute from a distance. Dr Rowland, especially, has your reporter's most earnest thanks for his kindness to her

A motion was made that Prof Powell's resolution be taken up, which was carried

Rev. G H Atkinson made a few remarks on the subject, warmly seconding the amendment Prof Powell made the suggestion of referring the resolution and amendment to a special committee Rev T F Campbell spoke briefly relative to Judge Thornton's efforts in regard to the bequest of school lands Rev. G. H Atkinson related an interesting anecdote of Judge Thornton's labors J K Buff moved that a rising vote be taken Motion ruled out of order On motion, the resolution was referred to a special committee, consisting of Prof Powell, Rev G H Atkinson and Rev T F Campbell, Rev T F Campbell stated that he would necessarily be absent, and Prof Johnson, of Portland, was appointed in his stead

"Fundamental Rules of Arithmetic" was then introduced by D V S Reid, who made some comprehensive remarks The subject was then opened for discussion. Mr Keiser gave his opinion Mr J T Gregg offered an idea about subtracting decimals Dr Rowland wished him to be emphatic Mr Reid asked a question Prof. Condon expressed his thoughts on "fundamental rules" in his inimitable style. Rev T F Campbell gave a few thoughts also Dr Hudson spoke for a few moments Mr Porter wished to ask a question Prof Anderson was called on, but the president thought the subject of too little importance. Mrs Adair explained her method of teaching addition Mr Keiser asked for further information

Next came music, Miss Hernandez presiding at the piano

Rev P S Knight was then introduced as lecturer on "Object Teaching" Rev Knight is too well known as an interesting lecturer for me to say that his discourse was listened to with deep attention while he exhibited different ornithological specimens of great beauty

A deaf mute gave some interesting illustrations of distinguishing the different birds.

A discussion—Should physical culture be made one of the regular branches of instruction in our schools"—was next opened by Mr. Parker, in the affirmative, who gave some good arguments, and was followed by Mr Simpson in the negative, who was equally able in his line of reasoning

"Next came an essay "What constitutes a good recitation?" by Miss L. W. Spaulding of Portland This essay was good indeed, and and the lady was loudly applauded!

Mrs Adair, of Salem, next gave her method of teaching orthography in a lucid and ready manner

The session closed with music—a quartet by Miss Jones Mrs Strong Dr Hall and Yeaton.

A motion was made by Prof Powell and carried that a social reunion be held this evening after exercises

SATURDAY MORNING SEPT 4 1875

THE INDIAN BUREAU FRAUDS

For some time it appeared improbable that Prof Marsh would be able to substantiate his charges of fraud and peculation against the management of the Indian bureau But the latest indications are that, whether he prove his specifications just as made or not, the investigation he set on foot will unearth frauds perpetrated on a large scale, the most common of which have been the signing of vouchers in blank by contractors, to be filled up subsequently by the agents with such amounts as they might choose Many instances of this species of fraud are coming to light, the amounts stated in the receipts or vouchers being largely in excess of the sums actually paid to the contractors The margins, of course, go into the pockets of the officials

There is no longer room to doubt that the Indian service is rotten to the core so rotten that nothing short of an entire reorganization will be of any avail toward reforming it There is scarcely an item of supplies required to be furnished to the Indians wherein the most shameful dishonesty cannot be found Inferior goods and prices adequate to furnish the very best short supplies for full pay, every manner of device to swindle the Indians on the one hand and the Government on the other, seem to prevail all along the line of reservations at the eastern base of the Rocky mountains No wonder the President takes alarm and revives his old favorite scheme of transferring the Indian bureau to the War Department But there is a shorter way out of the difficulty which the President ought to be willing to see Some judicious beheading in the Department of the Interior, beginning with the chief member of that branch of the government and extending down through the various offices connected with the Indian service, would have a wonderful effect There is no need of revolutionizing the system or abandoning a policy which has proved abundantly successful in those rare cases when it has been in the hands of honest men It is not the system, but the administration that needs abolishing, not the policy, but the giving out the offices to corrupt politicians in reward for services such as honest men would not perform, that needs to be abandoned Would the President but make up his mind to lay the ax at the root of the tree he would find little to trouble in effecting the necessary reformation

SETTLEMENT OF THE WESTSIDE RAILWAY LITIGATION

It will be welcome news to the people of Washington county and to those in the vicinity of McMinnville, that the litigation respecting the westside railway has at last been compromised on terms that will give them the accommodations in the matter of transportation which they have so long desired and contended for. By the terms of the adjustment the towns of Forest Grove and Hillsboro are to have depots for freight and passengers, with side tracks, etc, and are to be allowed all the advantages accorded to the most favored stations along the line of the road and the road when built on farther south is to go by McMinnville in accordance with the terms of the land grant The company doubtless recognize the fact that the best interests of the road, as well as of the people, will be consulted by granting these concessions Time will surely demonstrate the correctness of this idea We congratulate the people who at last have secured these benefits They contributed liberally, according to their circumstances to aid in the construction of the road and have waited for the advantages it promised, with quite as much patience as could have been expected Mr H Y Thompson, District Attorney, deserves great credit for the persistent efforts and constant vigilance with which he has labored to reach the result now secured While he has so conducted the business as to give little offense as possible to parties adversely interested, he has allowed nothing to swerve him from his purpose of making the proceeding a means of serving the communities through which the road lies

THE BOURBON VICTORY IN CALIFORNIA

The news from California confirms the reported Democratic victory Indeed they seems to have exceeded the expectations of any of the political prophets even on their own side of the house, sweeping everything but a single Congressman and it is not yet certain that they have lost even that.

The Democracy of this city are jubilant over the result, and make large account of it as an aid to carrying Oregon Doubtless it will have more or less influence on our election, but not so much as they anticipate The circumstances that conspired to make such a victory possible in California do not exist in Oregon We do not regard the election of Mr Lane as entirely improbable, but certainly he can not reasonably expect such a change of political complexion in this State as is manifested in California It is not one of the established facts that the people of Oregon have made up their minds to return a Bourbon to Congress

The school question is rising to such importance in the Ohio campaign as measurably to eclipse even the currency problem The orators on both sides are devoting their attention to it The Bourbons have the laboring oar They dare not avow the positions in which the Republicans place them and they appear afraid to disavow it Mr Thurman meets the question by saying it is not an issue and that it will be soon enough to discuss it when it becomes a subject of political moment But the people seem to have made up their minds, to a considerable extent at least that it is in issue and must be settled and they are not readily convinced that such is not the case even by the powerful eloquence of their distinguished senator

Guiford the apostate Catholic, found his spindle when he died Living, he did not amount to very much but dead he sets a whole community agog raises a question that is of very considerable importance, and gets up a riot It has all come about in this way he was denied interment in the Catholic cemetery, because of heresy, his friends carried the matter into the civil courts where it was tried and retried till the highest tribunal had pronounced in favor of the right to bury the body in the Catholic cemetery In accordance with this decision, the friends attempted to give the body a final interment in consecrated ground resulting in the disorders related in the dispatches

Scribner's excels all the other magazines in the field it occupies The most interesting article in the September number "A Study of Shakespeare's Patriots," is an admirable contribution to Shakespearean literature and to history It is a supplement from the artist's stand point by Page, to the paper on the German Death Mask in the July number 1874 The illustrations are photographs, by Page and a scale of measurements of the mask "Chicago" by J W Sheahan, is also a very interesting paper appropriately introduced by an engraving of the Phœnix rising out of the smoking ruins There are also articles from the pens of Mr Stedman and E E Hale which never produce anything that is not good and a poem of Edgar A Poe's in fac simile which will be valued as a memento of this most remarkable man

The Washington county Independent considering the explanation published by Mr Geo M Whitney of his course in connection with the Independent nomination, sufficient to justify Independents in supporting him, hauls down the name of Warren and runs up that of Whitney The subject is one upon which men may reasonably differ and while we can hardly adopt the Independent's view we admit its consistency, the only true way to be consistent being to act each day upon the light of that day

We understand Mr Geo M Whitney proposes to measure swords with Lane and Warren at Jacksonville on the 7th inst, and to go with them through the campaign So we shall witness another triangular contest on the stump such as took place last year among the candidates for Governor By this means a little life may be infused into the campaign which, thus far, has been rather a spiritless affair, all round

A man who could suppose anybody would be deceived by the very thin story invented by Rehl the Louisville bank teller, whose confession is given in this morning's telegrams has not sense enough to rob a bank The only evidence the story contained of being true was the fact that it was too gauzy to have been deliberately put up by anybody who was not an idiot

When Democrats shout California! it is only necessary to whisper North Carolina, and they subside instanter

Next Monday there will be a general election in Arkansas

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 4, 1875.

CITY.

A Costly Piece of Foolishness.—A friend from Clackamas county gives us the details of an incident which occurred near Cuttingsville, in the eastern part of the county, a few days ago. A farmer named Wright loaded up his wagon with wheat, and started to Oregon City. On his way he stopped at the house of a neighbor named Wills, and after resting awhile, started again on his way. When he reached the mill at Oregon City, he found that one sack of wheat was missing from his wagon. After some search, failing to find it, he procured a search warrant, and proceeded to the residence of Wills, being suspicious that young Wills had taken it from his wagon, which suspicion, however, was groundless, as further events showed. While young Wills' premises were being searched, a man came by, and seeing Wright, says to him: "Didn't you lose a sack of wheat up by Cuttingsville?" "Yes," replied Wright, when the man said he had found it there, and had taken care of it for the owner. Of course the search of Wills' premises ceased, but Wills' wrath at being suspicioned of larceny was boiling, and he "went" for Wright with the intention of obtaining revenge for the imputation cast on his honesty, but Wright being "heeled" with a pistol, Wills concluded that "discretion was the better part of valor," and got out of the way in double quick. In other words, he ran and Wright stood victor on the deserted field, a fact of which he made some boast, as Wills has some reputation as a fighter. The next day after his bloodless victory Wright was met on the road by an acquaintance named Stricklin, who was driving a span of fine horses attached to a wagon. Of course he must tell Stricklin how Wills had run at the sight of his revolver, and the better to illustrate the affair he pulled out his pistol and began to flourish it, when by some means it was discharged, and the contents struck one of Mr. Stricklin's horses, wounding it so badly that it was not expected to live. Stricklin, thinking the illustration of Wright entirely too forcible, came down from his wagon and then and there scared Wright tenfold worse than the latter had ever scared Wills or anybody else. At last accounts Mr. Wright held himself Stricklin's debtor in the sum of $200, and had a very badly wounded horse on his hands, and Wills considered himself on top.

Gored by a Cow.—The evening paper gives the following account of a frightful accident which occurred a few days since in the southern portion of the city, near the First street bridge. "A widow lady named Borrowex, residing with her father of the same name, went to the barn, a story and a half building, to give a cow some hay. The hay is kept in the upper story of the barn, and to reach it a frail ladder was employed. Mrs. Borrowex ascended the ladder to the loft, and gathering an armful of hay started down again. When part way down, and when the cow to be fed was at the bottom, the ladder gave way, precipitating the woman to the ground. The fall frightened and enraged the cow both at the same time, and before Mrs. Borrowex, who was somewhat stunned by the jar, could raise to her feet, the enraged animal plunged at her with lowered head, and drove one of her horns to the depth of about five inches into the fleshy part of the woman's right leg, between the knee and thigh on the inside. Of course, the woman shrieked fearfully with pain, which enraged the cow all the more, and the animal started around the enclosure with the poor woman impaled, like a fly upon a needle, upon the sharp point of her horn, tearing the flesh in a shocking manner. The first screams of the woman fortunately were heard by her father and brother, for a moment after the first plunge of the maddened beast, she fainted; and when they came to her assistance they had first to catch the animal before they could remove the woman from her terrible position. When liberated, the animal walked away with flesh attached to her horn, and blood streaming over her head in all directions; and when Mrs. Borrowex was conveyed to the house many thought her dead." At last accounts the unfortunate woman was suffering great pain, and her condition was regarded as quite critical.

Fruit Dryer Sold.—On yesterday Mr. Plummer, inventor of the Plummer Fruit Dryer, sold one of his machines to Mr. James Steel, of this city. The price paid was $3,500, and the machine, which is now on the way from San Francisco, will be erected at Beaverton, in Washington county, and will be in operation in six weeks. The machine of this kind at work in East Portland, is running day and night and is turning out a splendid article of dried fruit in great abundance. The favorable reception which the Plummer machine is meeting in our state is flattering to the inventor, and when the people have once seen it in operation they are at once impressed with its superiority. A great recommendation of these machines is their moderate cost, which is a great deal less than other machines of corresponding capacity, while the quality of their work cannot be excelled. The one sold to Mr. Steel is a No. 3.

A Home Enterprise.—The parties in our state and city who are interested in the establishment of a large tannery and boot and shoe factory in this city, inform us that the report published by the morning cotemporary that the enterprise had been abandoned, is entirely incorrect, and that on the contrary, the matter is being pushed ahead and is in a fair way of successful accomplishment. This seems to us to be a very expedient measure and one that is capable of being brought to a satisfactory issue, with the facilities offered in Oregon at present, and of being greatly enlarged in the near future. Capitalists in Portland are generally recognized as being ready to encourage the building up of all proper establishments having a tendency to promote the prosperity and growth of the city, and we respectfully invite their candid attention to the claims of this enterprise.

Brutal Conduct.—A young man named Henry Elkeles, who drives an express wagon, was arrested yesterday for committing a brutal and most unprovoked assault on a Chinaman. He gave bonds and was discharged until this morning, when the case will come up for trial. We understand that Elkeles is in the habit of maltreating Chinamen whenever an opportunity presents itself. He has been known to knock Chinamen down, or strike them a cruel blow with his whip-lash when passing along the street, without the shadow of an excuse for such brutal conduct. He should be dealt with severely.

Y. M. C. A. Services.—Rev. W. C. Chattin, general city missionary and secretary of the Y. M. C. A., requests us to say that the statement made to the effect that the song service of Prof. McGibeny would be held in connection with the members of the Y. M. C. A. next Sunday evening, may lead to misapprehension. The Y. M. C. A. as an association, does not propose to hold Sunday evening services until the rainy season sets in. The usual meeting at the corner of First and Stark streets at 3 o'clock will be held.

Accident.—A little daughter of Mr. Welch, proprietor of Hall's mill, distant about seven miles from the city, on the Canyon road, had the misfortune to have her right hand chopped off—only the thumb remaining. The child was engaged in picking up chips near where her brother was cutting some wood. She thoughtlessly reached too near the log where the boy was chopping, and in doing so lost the greater part of her hand. The flow of blood was staunched, and the wound dressed.

Street Nocturnal Concerts.—Our city has been disturbed lately by crowds of drunken or disorderly hoodlums singing bacchanalian songs on the back streets of our city, long after the toll of midnight from the city clock, and when a great many of our wearied citizens are trying in vain to woo the god of sleep. These nightly disturbances are getting to be a public nuisance, and we think the guardians of our peace—the M. P.—should see that these votaries of Bacchus are stopped.

Gone East.—Mr. W. A. Barker, who was one of the teachers last year at the Bishop Scott Grammar and Divinity School, is now at Philadelphia. He will soon enter the theological school at Middleton, Conn., to prepare himself for the ministry.

Annual Meeting.—The annual meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association will be held on Monday, Sept. 6, 1875, at 7 o'clock P. M., at the police court room.

Board of Equalization.—To-day the board of equalization will conclude its labors, having examined the assessment roll. During the week there has been a number of persons who have waited upon the board, and made application for a rebatement of taxes. At the coming term of county court, the clerk will doubtless be authorized to make the usual number of copies of the assessment roll.

Out and Injured.—The editor of the Vancouver Register says: "We call on some of the postoffice officials to rise and explain why our OREGONIAN failed to reach us on time this week. This is the first time in six years, except during the freeze-up, that the OREGONIAN has been behind time, and as it is our most important exchange we would prefer that some other paper be delayed."

Weather Report.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, September 3, 1875:

	7 A. M.	2 P. M.	9 P. M.
Thermometer	61°	67°	57°
Wind direction	S.	N.	C.
Wind velocity	2	2	0
Weather	Fair.	Fair.	Fair.
Maximum temperature			68°

Went on His Head.—The Washington county Independent says: Mr. William Gibbs, son of ex-Governor Gibbs, was riding a pony at a pretty brisk gait across a field; the pony stopped quite suddenly, but Billy wished to go on, and so went over the pony's head, landing on his cranium and seeing whole acres of stars and feeling up for the ground.

Courts.—A special term of the state circuit court will be held on Monday, September 6th, for the disposal of some cases which remain upon the docket. On Monday the county court will convene, and on Wednesday the commissioners', for the transaction of the usual business.

Sociable.—The ladies of the Baptist church having furnished their meeting house with inside blinds, are desirous of paying the remaining expenses thereby incurred, and will give an oyster supper at the basement next Tuesday evening, to which all are invited.

Teacher Engaged.—Mrs. Rau, the wife of the Portland optician, an expert in wax and ornamental needle work, is engaged by Rev. J. Gantenbein as teacher in that department, at the Anglo-German Institute for young girls.

Board of Foremen.—There will be a meeting of the board of foremen of the Portland fire department this evening at 8 o'clock, at the office of Chief Engineer Hallock. A full attendance is desired.

Liberal Association.—The liberal association will meet in Good Templars' hall to-morrow at 2 o'clock P. M. There will be a free discussion, which all are invited to attend and participate in.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

The sailing contest between the Nameless and Cricket and other boats, arranged for last Sunday, has been postponed indefinitely. A fresh match may be effected.

In the International Pigeon Match, at Manchester, England, August 2, Capt. Bogardus, champion of America, won an easy victory over Shaw, the best shot in England, for £200 a side.

The Boston base ball club has lost six games this season. The fight for championship is now between this club and the Athletics, the other eight clubs being too far behind to hope for victory.

Michler, Bassett and Wilcox, of the Arcadians, are absent from the city. At present there seems to be no prospect of a match game between the Pioneers and Arcadians. Cannot an arrangement be made for a return game between the Salem and Portland nines.

At the Riverside course a grand trot will take place next Saturday. The purse is $500, of which $350 is to be awarded to the first horse and $150 to the second. Full particulars are to be obtained in the advertisement elsewhere. Undoubtedly there will be a grand rush to the grounds on this occasion.

Weather permitting, a lively game of ball will be played between the Atlantic base ball club, of this city, and the Spartan base ball club, of Vancouver, at the latter place, to-day. The following is the Spartan nine: Baker, c; Eddie Bateman, p; Smith, s s; Post, 1b; Sperry, 2b; Pieper, 3b, cap; Edgar Bateman, l f; Anson, c f; Ginder, r f. The Atlantics will leave the city at 9 A. M.

BRIEF NOTES.

No need of the sprinkler this weather.

Retail stores will close this evening about 10 o'clock.

Yesterday Gen. Sheridan went up the Columbia to the Dalles.

The steamer California will not sail for the North until Monday.

To-day the steamship John L. Stephens will sail from San Francisco for Portland.

Some of the foliage of the forest to the west of the city is beginning to assume a yellowish hue.

A number of persons are taking time by the forelock and laying in a supply of fuel for the winter.

A number of men were engaged yesterday in making the necessary repairs to the freight cars which were ditched on Thursday.

When is that public reception to be given Gen. Sheridan? We are frequently asked that question. That matter rests solely with the mayor and members of the common council.

From now until next spring there may be expected a marked increase of crime, and the M. P. will not have so much painful leisure. Harvest is over, the fishing season is ended, and the fairs are approaching; and a large and undesirable influx of transient population may be expected.

FIRE MATTERS.

The department is in excellent condition.

Both of Multnomah's engines were on duty at the late fire.

Cards, with list of alarm boxes, should be circulated more liberally.

Next Thursday evening the board of delegates will meet at their rooms.

Jas. Birmingham, of Tiger Fire Co., is back again from Salem and Albany.

Willamette Fire Co. expended $1,013 in celebrating their 22d anniversary last month.

S. A. Moreland was elected to the presidency of Willamette Fire Co., on Thursday evening.

There is still some delay in the turning out of the new hose carriages for Willamette and Protection companies.

On Monday there will be a drill of the various companies, the day being the anniversary of the Portland fire department.

The new bells of Protection Engine Co. No. 4 and Tiger Engine Co. No. 5, have both been tested, and give good satisfaction.

Mr. Wm. Saunders, formerly assistant foreman of Willamette Fire Co., will visit Portland in about two weeks for the purpose of effecting the purchase of a fire engine for Marshfield, Coos county, of which place he is a resident.

MUSICAL NOTES.

Prof. A. L. Francis has returned from an extended business trip.

McGibeny's Academy of Music will open at Good Templars' hall on Monday.

Portland has a host of musical talent, showing that our citizens are lovers of the art.

In a few days Prof. D. W. Prentice, late of Salem, will locate permanently in this city.

We are pleased to announce that Prof. Chas. Bray has abandoned the idea of leaving Portland—at least for the present.

Prof. Bray has just composed a very pretty piece of music—song and dance—which he calls "The Fairest of the Fair." He is the author of both music and words. It is among his best compositions.

Go to Fabre & Barnes' for lunch.

There is one or two features of the entertainment this evening that will be a surprise to all—not to be advertised.

Lay in a supply of cigars and tobacco, before going on a hunt, from O'Brien's.

The Mind Reader is causing much talk. He gives a performance that is so entirely new and novel that all will be surprised and delighted.

FOR THE LADIES.

Woolen-barege is coming into vogue again.

A bride's vail now must just reach below the waist.

Something strictly new (and pretty) in hats is wanted.

Lengthwise stripes are being introduced in fine hosiery.

Plain, damask-figured and striped gauzes are elegant for full-dress toilets for the summer.

Combination suits are still in favor, and it is predicted they will be worn again next fall and winter.

A lady writer says "stockings must match country dresses in color." What is the color of a country dress?

Gold and silver braid will be extensively used on dresses, cloaks and wraps. It is expensive and showy.

Fair and wealthy ladies wear their initials in diamonds upon black velvet necklets of an evening and for balls.

Fine black chip watteaus are trimmed with two bows of Valenciennes lace, black velvet and clusters of small fruits.

A plain jockey basque simply piped on the edge, and a short walking skirt, with two or three pleatings, make a tasteful suit.

Pale blue gauze in damask designs of the same shade is trimmed with wide rich fringe and worn over gros grain of the same tint.

A pretty country toilet is of indigo blue barege, trimmed with ruffles of white muslin wrought in English oden-work embroidery.

Valenciennes and Duchesse lace are the newest and most expensive things in neckties. The latter are more showy than the former.

A French style of silk stockings is of lemon color, embroidered with a spray of small red currants; or a bunch of black currants upon the instep.

Among importations from Paris are colored raw silks and foulard undergarments, such as corset-covers, Turkish trowsers, petticoats and robes of wrappers.

Dress goods in Paris are astonishingly cheap, but the fare there and back makes them cost more than you have to pay for the same quality of goods in this country.

In Paris black silk still continues the favorite fabric for costumes, although a new material called Sicilliene promises to be more popular for cold weather. It is similar in appearance and said to be serviceable.

The newest wraps are simply small round capes, which only reach to the waist, but are entirely covered with lace, braid and fringe. The Dolman is much used; all the cloaks are very short behind, but long and elaborate in front. The slope seems to commence at the hips.

Handsome traveling and street suits are made of gray drab and blue cloth, the underskirt finished by a pleat alternated with wide braid, the overskirt trimmed with a single row of the same military braid, and the waist a sort of combination of vest and half tight jacket. A ribbon bow is placed at the back of the neck and at the waist.

The neatest, jauntiest "chapeaux" are certainly the most fashionable in Paris. The most are simply trimmed with a wreath of flowers without an atom of lace, ribbon or illusion. Flowers are not to be used for face trimming during the autumn, as the brim sits rather close, is turned up at the back and the trimming placed there. Nasturtions, wallflowers and berries are coming into bloom, and poppies have gone to seed.

RELIGIOUS.

Religious services will be held at the Zion A. M. E. church, on Third street, between B and C, to-morrow, at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M., by the pastor, Rev. A. B. Smith.

There will be service at the Unitarian church at 11 A. M. and at 7:30 P. M. The Sunday school is resumed at 12:30. The subject of the evening sermon is "Vacation experiences."

At the First Congregational church in the morning the pastor will preach upon "A Christian Temper." At 7:45 P. M. will be administered the sacrament of the holy communion.

"The way to a life free from care," will be the theme for the morning service at the German chapel, on Washington street, below Third, by the pastor, Rev. John Gantenbein. "The best teacher in Portland," will be the subject of the evening discourse.

Divine service will be held in St. Stephen's chapel at 11 o'clock, with sermon, and at 4 P. M. choral service. At 7 P. M. service will be held in St. Matthew's Mission chapel, situated at the intersection of First and Caruthers streets, the Rev. John Rosenberg officiating. Seats are free.

Services at the Taylor street Methodist church, at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Several persons will be received into the church on Sunday morning. Sunday school at 1:45 P. M. Missionary services will occupy part of the Sunday school session. Street preaching at the corner of First and Taylor streets at 6:45 P. M. Subject of the evening's discourse, "Philip's visit fills a city with joy." Young people's meeting Saturday evening.

"This do in remembrance of me"—Rev. Dr. Lindsley will conduct public worship to-morrow in the church at the corner of Washington and Third streets. At the morning service, the Communion will be administered, to which all persons present will be invited who have ever professed their faith in Christ in any branch of the church. In the evening the subject, by request, will be on the Greed of Gain and its Fruits, suggested by late financial reverses.

The Baptist meeting house having been thoroughly repaired within and without, and having received various additions to its conveniences, will be reopened with appropriate exercises to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock. At the close of the morning services, the Lord's supper will be commemorated by the church. Sabbath school at 12:30. Prayer meeting at the usual hour. To-morrow evening the pastor will commence a series of Biblical lectures upon various questions of "free thought;" to which he would specially invite young people desirous of investigating the source of truth, doubters and advocates of liberalism. These lectures will extend through the present quarter, occurring on the first and third Sundays of each month. Subject for opening lecture: What maketh us to differ?

PERSONAL.

H. B. Luce, Esq., editor of the Washington county Independent, gave us the pleasure of a brief call yesterday.

MR. JOS. KOHN has gone to San Francisco for the purpose of purchasing new goods for the fall and winter trade. At his new and elegant Establishment, First and Morrison streets, he makes a grand display of clothing, furnishing goods, etc. Mr. Kohn knows exactly what his customers want and he has very sensibly filled his shelves with such goods as are sure to meet with satisfaction and the prices too are figured down to suit the times. In a few days he will make new announcements.

BECK & WALDMAN have added largely to their stock of Clothing during the past week. Mr. Beck has selected many new and attractive styles and forwarded the first purchases, which are really the best to be seen in Portland. The variety of styles for youths are numerous, and no parent should fail to examine the arrivals. Take your boy and have him fitted. The firm have an immense stock for the fall and winter and offer special inducements to all.

The AMERICAN EXCHANGE HOTEL is still run by Quimby, who has been here for the past ten years, and intends to continue. He has no connection whatever with the St. Charles Hotel. His old patrons may be sure of always meeting him at the American Exchange as of old. jy7tf

PLEASURE BOATS.

I have a number of Sail and Row Boats ready at any moment to let at reasonable charges. Boats made to order.

JOHN LACHAPELLE,
Foot of Pine St.

HONESTY is the best policy in medicine as well as in other things. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a genuine preparation of that unequalled spring medicine and blood purifier, decidedly superior to the poor imitations heretofore in the market. Trial proves it.

AMUSEMENTS.

Owing to the unexpected absence of Lieut.-Gen. Sheridan from the city, the promised entertainment which was to have been given at New Market theater last evening, was postponed by Mr. T. A. Wood. In company with a number of gentlemen from Portland, Gen. Sheridan started for the Dalles yesterday morning. He expects to return by the steamer this evening. On learning that the General would not be present, Mr. Wood circulated a large number of posters announcing that the performance would be deferred until this evening. This was quite a disappointment to the public, but under the circumstances, Mr. Wood acted wisely, as he did not wish to deceive those who should attend. Yesterday afternoon he forwarded to Gen. Sheridan the following dispatch:

Lieut.-Gen. Sheridan: As you cannot be present this evening as per arrangement, performance is postponed until Saturday evening. Will you be present? T. A. WOOD.

Under date of Celilo, Sept. 3d, the following answer was sent:

To T. A. Wood: Should we get back in time, will attend. P. H. SHERIDAN.

A barouche will be on the wharf this evening, and immediately on the arrival of the steamer from the Cascades, the hero of Winchester will be conveyed to the theater and escorted to a private box. A long and attractive programme will be presented, during which Prof. Rice, the wonderful mind-reader, and Prof. Morris, the champion skater, and other well-known professionals will appear. We advise the public to attend as the entertainment promises in every particular to be worthy of patronage.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Mr. John Wilson has a new "ad." in this issue, to which the attention of the ladies is directed.

Waller & Son are fully prepared to accommodate their patrons with oysters in every style. Note their card.

Isadore Gumbert has opened in the St. Charles a neat shaving saloon. He is assisted by Mr. Wm. Gieger. Call on them.

Shuster & Davidson are producing some excellent work at their photograph gallery. Observe the display made in front of their rooms.

Jos. Kohn has hied away to San Francisco for new goods. In the meantime, the establishment is in capable hands, and everything the customers want may be found.

Note the announcement in another column of J. K. Gill & Co., relative to school books and stationery. Their stock is large, and special inducements are offered to all.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

David Baldwin; drunk; fined $5; paid.

Thos. Gravesby; drunk; fined $5; paid and defendant discharged.

John Gill; drunk; fined $5; did not pay, and committed for three days.

Ah You; disorderly; fined $10; failed to come to the center, and committed for five days.

Lunch to-day at Fabre & Barnes'.

No extra charge for reserved seats. Box sheet open this morning at 10 o'clock by G. L. DePrans, in McCormick's book store.

The champion skater will be to many an attractive feature. Mr. Morris has no equal on the coast.

"Healing on the Wings," say all who have made use of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and by such use been cured of coughs, colds, bronchitis, sore throat, influenza or consumption. The prudent will always keep this standard remedy by them.

Teeth like orient pearls set in cushions of rose;
A breath like the perfume the toilet bestows;
These are charms to win hearts, when all other charms fade,
But they can't be preserved without SOZODONT'S aid.

For Coughs, Colds and Throat Disorders use "Brown's Bronchial Troches," having proved their efficacy by a test of many years.

IMPORTANT.—Indorsed by the Medical profession. DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Chest. DR. TOWNSLEY'S TOOTHACHE ANODYNE cures in one MINUTE.

WILD ROSE OF CAPE COD

Nearly all the roses in Massachusetts are born in June but Wild the little daughter of John Rose, was born in December, and on Cape Cod too

Ah what a struggle it is to live at all on Cape Cod in December! You have only a narrow strip of land to cling to and the Atlantic ocean (even when it is not in a great rage) clutches away with one single wave of its watery hand an acre or two of sand, while the cold waters of Cape Cod bay sweep right in on the other side within sight, too the arm of sand is so thin and worn and wasted away. Look on your map at the state of Massachusetts, and see if I am not right about it

Well on Cape Cod as I said Wild Rose was born but that was twelve years ago, and so this last December was celebrated her twelfth birthday It wasn t much of a celebration to be sure, for there wasn t many persons to celebrate it—only Mrs Rose and Johnny and Wild herself—for Captain Rose was gone on a fishing trip

At tea, that night there was upon the table a big loaf of ginger cake—frosted too—and around about it—not on it mind you—twelve small tallow candles ' Twelve dips Johnny said that made as much light as the Highland itself ' And Johnny ought to know, for the keeper of Cape Cod light is a great friend of Johnny's and often in summer lets the lad go up with him to see him ' light up "

This Highland light stands out on the bleak cape, and is oftentimes the first light that greets the sight of seamen when approaching the coast of New England from over the Atlantic ocean

Even in summer the wind blows so hard at the Highlands that it blows the wings of young turkeys over their heads and in winter it blows nobody knows how hard

I am quite certain you have never seen a home like Wild Rose's home. It is hidden away in the very bottom of a big hollow in the sand and is protected on all sides by a high fence to keep the sand from covering it up In the first place the house had been built upon piles driven into the sand but the fence was afterwards added, and outside of the fence was a barricade of seaweed Over the stilts, fence, seaweed and all was the fisherman's cabin as snug and warm and comfortable as anything on Cape Cod could be Not far away, on the Atlantic coast, was a charity house, not a poor house where poor folks could go and live when they hadn't anywhere else to live, but a rude room inclosed by a rude outside, into which a poor shipwrecked mariner might crawl and possibly keep himself from freezing to death until help should arrive. Wood and matches and straw are supposed to be kept in every charity house along the coast

Johnny Rose was two years younger than his only sister Wild, but a ten-year old lad on Cape Cod knows more of the sea and ships and fishing than the wisest grown up man in the world who lives inland

The Little Katie was Captain Rose s fishing schooner, and the Little Katie was frozen fast in the ice more than six weeks ago, right in sight from the land up the bank above the cabin Two weeks passed by and still the ice held the fishing boats and would not let them go Stout little steam tugs went rasping away with brm bows and good intent at the ice day after day in order to break it up and tow the boats out of danger but the cold came down stronger than ever and knit the ice cakes firmer and firmer Every day, Johnny bundled up until he looked like I don t know what, made the toilsome journey over to the Highland to look through the glass ' at his father's schooner, and, every night for two weeks, with a face on fire from the friction of the wind he came back with the good news, "No signal up yet."

"No signal up yet" meant that there was still something left to eat and wood and burn on the Little Katie, and hopes also of getting free of the ice without sinking

Now and then a neighbor came down into the hollow and walked in without knocking at the cabin door, to inquire how Mrs Rose was getting on, and to say yet again "Cape Cod has seen harder times than this, Mrs Rose Keep up a stout heart, and we'll have the fleet safe into Providence harbor before many days " And then Mrs Rose would put on a bright look and say, in a cheery voice, Oh, I hope so," but in her heart she feared all things, for did she not know that every dwelling on Cape Cod had its widow, sooner or later?

At last there came a day when Mrs Rose said that Wild might go to the light with Johnny to learn the news

The two children set off in high glee The sky was clear, and the wind was blowing from the west. The Highland light-house was not more than a mile away, and what could happen to the children? Nevertheless, Mrs. Rose gave them many commands They were to return as soon as they found out what news from the Little Katie, and, if it should snow, they were to go back or forward, which ever way should be the nearer and if near the coast, they were to go to the charity house in the bank and wait there for rescue

The wind helped them on their way and, to write the exact truth, blew so hard and so fast that it came very near blowing them past the lighthouse over the high bank into the ocean

It s a tough day, a tough day even for the Cape, said the light-keeper when they reached the light house, 'and the boats have drifted, Johnny For the life of me I can t make out the Little Katie," but Johnny made her out without the slightest difficulty Of course he did! Did not every Cape Cod boy know his father's boat? More than all there hung the signal of distress. The light keeper saw it, and Wild looked at it, and Johnny looked again, and declared that, ' Come what would he d get out there and find out what the matter was "

Then the glass was put away, and they all went down, and the children, thoroughly warmed, started for home

A little cloud over Cape Cod bay grew and came nearer and spread out more and more, and at last began to drop down like white snow on the sand

' Come! pitch into it as fast as you can while we can see," said Johnny, seizing Wild s hand and bowing to the wind 'We're three-quarters home and we'll make it in no time '

It was not dark and Johnny knew the sand marks well Here a bunch of poverty-grass and there a forlorn little clump of bayberry whose outlines he knew just as he knew the outlines of the boats and sails, served to guide him when the air was thick with snow

"We re lost!" said Wild pulling back and trying to stop Johnny, but the sturdy little fellow declared that they weren't lost at all, didn't he know all about it? Hadn't he 'fogged ' it many a time to the light and back? Why, there, right ahead was a pole that he knew. Of course it was right on top of home, and there was mother calling this minute, not fifty feet away

All of which statements were quite true and in five minutes they were safe in the cabin, and had told their news from the ice-bound boats

Nothing to eat, may be and cold perhaps Not sick, I hope, said Mrs Wild; and then in rather a dismal way, she set forth the little table for their evening meal

"I should think you'd feel gladder about our getting home safe mother, ' said Wild "for just see how it snows '

' I am," said Mrs. Wild, but I was thinking about some way to help your father

Do you think there is a way?' asked Wild 'You know the boats can't get there, and the ice isn't safe '

If I was God," said Johnny, ' I'd fetch a big wind along that 'ud crack that ice up small as fish scales in no time."

' Yes and sink every boat in no time!' suggested Wild with scorn

"Oh dear!" said Johnny I guess I was in too much of a hurry, but something s got to be done!"

The wind had been blowing two hours after dark, and the snow and sand were whirling about in a long, round dance, after the fashion of Cape Cod sand and snow, when Wild called out of the darkness to Johnny

"Are you asleep? '

Johnny guessed he wasn't asleep although he had been fast asleep when Wild's voice reached him and wanted to know what was the matter

I ve thought of a way, I guess we can reach the Little Katie, Johnny

How?"

Johnny was up in the bed, leaning on his hands interested in a moment

You know that big hank of net-twine of father s?

What of it?' with disappointment

Don t you believe 'twould reach?"

Whose goin' to reach it, I should like to know?'

"When the wind blows right—"

"What, then Wild Rose? Are you talking in your sleep?

Send a kite over ' suggested Wild not heeding the interruption

Whew!' exclaimed Johnny sinking down into his warm bed again

He didn t speak and poor Wild thought he held her scheme in extreme derision nevertheless Johnny was thinking even after his sister was sleeping

The next day it snowed all day There was no chance to hear one word from the fishing fleet. Johnny declared that he must go to the nearest neighbor s house He knew the way well enough but it was after nine o clock before he set forth

Presently he returned with his friend Peter Petit and the two lads spent the morning with barred door in Captain Rose s net-room

Wild peeped into the place when the boys were out of it eating their dinner, and beheld to her amazement, the skeleton of a huge kite

Oh Johnny! are you going to try it? she cried running out to him

At first Johnny was vexed that she had found out but in a minute or two he was all over the pet and was in high glee when Wild and her mother also joined in the work An hour before the sun went down across the bay the kite was done and the snow ceased to fall It was too late to go to the Highland light to see the signal on the Little Katie it was too late to do anything with the kite even had the wind been right

The next morning the wind blew just right and almost at the break of day the boys set forth accompanied by five or six men, for idlers are always to be found on Cape Cod in winter

The kite was made of good stout paper, and it was covered with messages to the captain of the Little Katie, or any other captain over whose boat it might chance to fall, or get entangled The wind was off shore and away went the kite, the men paying out the seine twine but alas! the kite went high above the boats and did not reach them It was cold work flying kite on the awful ice bound shore but the novelty of it brought a crowd of men to the spot To their own surprise they entered into the work with spirit but every attempt, that morning, failed The kite fell short or flew too high, or went off in the wrong direction

' Run home, laddies and get your dinner and get warm clear through your bones,' said one of the men to Johnny and Peter about eleven of the clock and we ll see what can be done with the kite this afternoon

When Johnny reached home he declared that he wasn t cold the least bit, nor hungry the least atom, but he sat in front of a blazing drift wood fire and ate like a giant, and got up to go to the coast again

Wild didn't see why she couldn't go, too It was her father just as much as Johnny's, and she guessed she cared as much about the Little Katie as any of them did And so Wild, bundled up until all resemblance to a twelve-year old girl was lost set forth toiling through the snow and sand to the coast At a short distance in the rear, Mrs Wild followed on It seemed to her, as she drew near the shore that half of the inhabitants of the next village were gathered to see the flying of a kite.

It was just ready to start on its over ice journey when Wild came upon the scene

' Don t you see, there won t be anything to catch hold of?" she said to Johnny.

"Catch hold of? ' repeated Johnny who felt that he could not in justice despise Wild s suggestions any more

I ll show you, she said if you'll hold on a minute Tie some long strings, now and then, near the kite that will hang down '

The strings were tied on, half a dozen of them at intervals, and away went the kite with more string to it than any other kite ever flew

"'Twon t reach! It flies too high! No go! Let-out! Give it string! Hurrah! as the kite seeming to meet wind in another current began to flutter, turn, and actually did fall on the ice within reaching distance of the Little Katie's crew

Then such a shout as went up from the Cape Cod shore, for, was there not a line fast from one of the ice-bound boats to the firm, old main land and did it not mean that bread at least could be drawn across the frozen sea to the famishing?

The men on the Little Katie were pulling in the kite, which looked a good deal worn, but still they gathered around it, and read in Johnny's boy hand the words. If you get the kite don't pull in the string, for we ll put something to eat on it if you are hungry, and you can pull it over, Everybody s well over here. Wild and Johnny

Captain Rose read the words, and then he and his crew tried to shout back, but the wind carried their voices across the bay

Within the next twenty four hours the cord had been doubled, and food in small packages went along the novel road way from hour to hour, until miles of seine twine lay on the deck of the Little Katie and many loaves of bread with small packages of salt meat,' sugar, tea and coffee, had been secured from the sea.

The next morning the wind blew again on Cape Cod The inhabitants were on the watch for the kite, and lo! it was seen rising in the air On, on it came. It sailed over the heads of the group on shore it went right across the " Wrist' of Cape Cod It would have gone out upon the ocean but for the Highland light house that caught and held the great fluttering bird of man

Wild and Johnny were the first to reach the light and cry out What news? ' to the keeper who had just succeeded in recovering the battered kite

Come and see with your young eyes ' Wild and Johnny found the words We had had nothing to eat for two days. Now we ll weather the ice, God willing and get in all right We ve supplied the Mary from our stores

And there, right at the door the first-comers, who had followed the kite were Mrs Rose and the friends of the men of the Mary

Whose idea was the kite? ' asked an old fisherman

' Wild s" shouted Johnny

"Johnny made it though I couldn t make a kite ' said. Wild, but not a soul but Johnny, heard her for the wild air about the light was ringing with the shout of Long live Wild Rose of Cape Cod!"—Sarah J Prichard

The state of the local money market is one of a good deal of quietness after the perturbations of the week but no serious results so far as our state is concerned have followed the late excitement. It is true that transactions have been somewhat retarded and the banks of this city are wisely disposed to husband their ready coin to meet all possible demands of depositors which they are abundantly able to do A lapse of time is necessary for business to resume its wonted channels after the general disturbance experienced the past few days but the least sanguine even among business men express a confidence that the present monetary pressure will pass over before the 1st of October and that the volume of transactions during the fall months will aggregate about as large as has been at any time anticipated. All our leading firms have shown a commendable disposition towards lenity to debtors and we hear of no pressure having been brought to bear in making the regular monthly collections all seeming to understand fully the situation of affairs and being willing to bridge over the gap by the best method presenting itself until matters become more settled

Trade has been checked in almost all its branches, and merchants find the first week in the fall months to be one of a very limited volume of business. The arrival of the two vessels from Honolulu with an assortment of island sugars is anxiously awaited as the market is bare of this article. Coffees are held firmly at the advance noticed over a week ago with a scant supply of some qualities Other groceries are in fair supply with no important fluctuations in quotations

The produce market has undergone no change since our last review and though the figures given are almost nominal there is but little tendency toward any concessions on the part of holders especially of breadstuffs

The Sugar Trade.

It is known that the increased rebate allowed on exports of refined sugar has led to a large expansion in the trade of the United States with Great Britain The English refiners are between two fires and naturally feel incensed at their situation The French refiners have for some time enjoyed certain advantages over them, and now American refiners step in to complete their troubles A private circular from France of August 3d says that the supervision of the refineries has been postponed until March 1 1876 at the same time modifications of the law have been introduced by which the position of the English refiner is made still more unprofitable The large bounty offered on exports of refined sugar from the United States have rather neutralized the enlarged volume of revenue anticipated from the increase in the duties on raw grades.

Miscellaneous.

We are informed that the parties interested in starting works for carrying on the business of tanning leather and the manufacture of boots and shoes in this city are busily engaged in arranging the preliminaries and that the successful issue of their labors is only a question of time This is a feasible undertaking and we hope some of the capitalists of our city will give it due encouragement.

The continued shipments of iron from the works at Oswego indicate the success of that important enterprise. Some of this iron was chilled at San Francisco, a few days ago, with the most satisfactory results

The construction of the revenue cutter at Albina is progressing finely and the activity incident upon the work lends a decided business air to the place

Minnesota will send to market this year 30 000 000 bushels wheat

The surplus products of Kansas are estimated at $20 000 000 The heaviest season ever known.

Large quantities of frozen peaches are to be sent to Europe the enterprise last season having been a success

In Indiana Illinois Ohio and other western states the news reaches us of increased activity in almost every branch of trade.

The wheat crop in southern Illinois is said to be a total failure on account of the heavy rains

The United States government are coining 2 000 000 two cent pieces and 1 000 000 one cent pieces for the Peruvian government.

The Iron Age in its issue of August 5th says that of the fifty two blast furnaces in the Lehigh valley thirty three are out of blast In the Schuylkill and Susquehanna valley the proportion of furnaces now idle is about the same

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives, Sarsaparilla, Dock Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting It purifies the blood purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ or organs whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone the disorders they produce disappear such as Ulcerations of the Liver Stomach Kidneys Lungs Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin St Anthony's Fire Rose or Erysipelas Pimples Pustules, Blotches Boils Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum Scald Head Ringworm Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia Pain in the Bones Side and Head Female weakness Sterility Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease Dropsy Dyspepsia Emaciation and General Debility With their departure health returns

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER.

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color

It removes all eruptions, itching, and dandruff and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean

By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong

As a dressing nothing has been found so effectual or desirable

Dr A A Hayes State Assayer of Massachusetts says of it I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes.

End of the Georgia Insurrection Case.

AUGUSTA, Sept. 4.—The grand jury of Washington county before whom the alleged insurrectionists have been tried this week discharged the remaining prisoners and commended the judge and counsel for the faithful performance of duty. Judge Johnson then addressed the grand jury and citizens advising the latter to acquiesce in the decision of the jury and commending the people for the conservative and law abiding course pursued. All the prisoners not tried were discharged and the court adjourned.
